Planning a Year of Discipleship

A basic strategic framework for discipleship will be shared, as well as a simple tool to help you approach annual planning with balance and intentionality. Time for open conversation about issues related to leading discipleship in your church is also planned.

Troy Allen, Senior Pastor, First Baptist Church, College Station

Leaders of Adults

Groups That Thrive

Groups that engage in mission, discipleship, and community build the body of Christ and enjoy being together. In this breakout leaders of adult groups will gain tools for engaging their group members in the outward, upward, and inward purposes of Sunday School/open Small Groups.

Davey Gibson, Associate Pastor of Education & Discipleship, Sugar Land Baptist Church, Sugar Land

Engaging Teenagers in Small Groups

As the leader of a youth small group, preparation is more than just Bible study. You have the opportunity to help teenagers grow in their walk with Jesus and build community, but also challenge them to minister to the world around them. This session will help you formulate a plan of how to use small groups to help your students look outward, upward and inward.

Jo Beth MacTavish, Associate Director of Student Life, Houston Christian University

To Know and to Grow: Sharing the Gospel with Children

This session will explore the spiritual formation of children—how they can know they are loved by God and grow in their faith journey. As childhood leaders, we are entrusted with sharing the gospel with children during their formative years and nurturing their faith through discipleship.

Lisa Keeling, Minister to Kids, Tallowood Baptist Church, Houston
